Siguler Guff Portfolio Company Slice Technologies Acquired by Rakuten

NEW YORK, September 5, 2014 – Siguler Guff & Company, a multi-strategy alternative investment firm with over $10 billion of assets under management, announced today that Rakuten has acquired Slice Technologies, a portfolio company in the Russia Partners Technology Fund managed by Siguler Guff’s Moscow-based private equity affiliate, Russia Partners.

Slice’s technology automatically identifies e-receipts within consumers’ inboxes and extracts data points about each purchase to create digital commerce products. Slice is transforming online shopping and retail by unveiling innovative digital commerce data via its APIs, information products and consumer applications. The company, based in Palo Alto, California, has processed more than 200 million items to date for a total purchase value of over $4 billion.

The acquisition signals that Rakuten, one of the world’s leading internet services companies, is actively expanding its U.S. presence, which operates as Rakuten USA. Rakuten’s flagship business, Rakuten Ichiba, is Japan’s largest online retailer. Rakuten completed its previous U.S. acquisition approximately four years ago with the purchase of Buy.com.

Slice has raised $32 million from investors including Rakuten, Lightspeed Venture Partners, Innovation Endeavors, DCM, NPD Group and Siguler Guff. Slice has approximately 70 employees with an engineering team located in Central and Eastern Europe, making Siguler Guff a key strategic partner.

“All investors are not created equally. When we built Slice, we were highly selective about the investors we brought aboard, and Siguler Guff proved to be a formidable partner,” commented Scott Brady, Co-Founder and Chief Executive Officer of Slice. “This was a successful exit by any measure, and it would not have been possible without the support of our investors.”

“We are very pleased to announce another successful exit in the consumer internet and e-commerce space. The recent Slice exit, along with past successes in the sector including the IPO of EPAM Systems in February 2012, are primarily a result of our investment professionals’ ability to identify and partner with talented entrepreneurs, creative programmers and experienced management teams to consistently create value for our investors,” said Drew Guff, Managing Director and Founding Partner of Siguler Guff.
